Sharing what Ten10 Junior Consultants are working on

Hi all, I'm Kieran, a tech enthusiast with over 25 years of industry experience. My career journey began as a court runner for the CPS, then I moved into testing, before discovering my passion for coding and product development. I've been fortunate to work across various industries, including media, investment, finance, and consultancy.

Although I discovered this passion later in my career, I'm now an avid coder with a strong understanding of tech delivery, from architecture to product definition. I'm a firm believer in the power of education, having entered the workforce straight out of school and been largely self-taught. This drive led me to Ten10 and am now the Transformation Director, where I share my knowledge and guide others toward successful tech careers and growing a business with a great social vision.

Outside of work, I'm a married father of two. I enjoy going to the gym, attempting to play golf, and spending quality time with my family. I'm also an assistant manager for my daughter's football team.
